

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system is provided for facilitating computerized transactions. The system comprises an optically encoded personal information carrier. The carrier comprising a card readable in a CD-ROM drive. The card comprises optically encoded personal information related to a user, the 5 personal information including an account number for one of a credit card and a debit card. A processing device comprises a CD-ROM drive for reading the optically encoded card, and a processor which may include browsing tools for allowing a user to view and select actions to be taken or items for purchase and transaction tools for allowing a user complete a selected transaction. Alternatively, the personal information carrier may include an optically encoded version of the browsing tools and the transaction tools.

10
15
20
25
30
35
40
45
50
55
60
65
70
75
80
85
90
95